

Horizons

- Think back to some of the horizons you enjoyed over the summer holidays. Perhaps you experienced eye-catching sea or mountain views, or were stretched with new challenges and opportunities?
- What new horizons are you anticipating in this new school year? What possibilities are there for moving out of your comfort zone and growing – either personally or professionally?
- How can you make sure that this year is not just a repetition of the last one, but includes new experiences?
- There is always more to discover. How can you encourage each other to be courageous, be curious, and to have confidence?
- How could you support those who may find change difficult?

‘We all live under the same sky, but we don’t all have the same horizon.’

Konrad Adenauer

‘Look to the horizon, spread your wings and fly.’

Tom Reilly